

The MICHELIN Guide

New York City

RESTAURANTS

2010

Mr Chow

Chinese

C1

324 E. 57th St. (bet. First & Second Aves.)

Subway: 59 St

Dinner nightly

Phone: 212-751-9030

Web: www.mrchow.com

Prices: $$$$

This Mr Chow dates back to 1979 but still lures a high-profile crowd night after night. Actor, artist, restaurateur, and Renaissance man Michael Chow added interior design to his talents in creating this chic black and white dining room accented with a red fabric mobile overhead. The team of white jacketed servers makes closely placed diners feel posh and pampered. Regulars and cognoscenti know not to request the menu; have your waiter order for you (though you may want to include the fried seaweed), and don't be shy about dislikes. Find yourself distracted from your meal when the oft-performed noodle-making demonstration begins. It's impressive, as will be the check.

Downtown residents will appreciate the TriBeCa location.

Naya

